Scholarships

To apply for scholarships, use the form at the end of this program. Deadline: January 28, 2002. The purpose of the form is to: (1) help the Appalachian Studies Association use its limited scholarship money to help the largest possible number of conference attendees and (2) help applicants explain exactly what they need in support from the ASA so that the ASA Scholarship Committee can make prudent decisions. Primary criteria in decision making are financial need of the applicants and the ASA’s need to increase access to the conference for grassroots community people, students, persons of color, and any people for whom conference attendance is blocked by financial barriers.

Exhibitors, Vendors and Groups are invited to exhibit at the conference. Contact Mary Thomas at the ASA office for more information and rates: email at asa@marshall.edu; phone at (304) 696-2904.

This year’s theme, Voices from the Margins—Living on the Fringe, features voices from the margins: Appalachians in north Georgia, north Alabama, the South Carolina hill country, the northern Appalachian urban fringe, as well as the new Latino Appalachians, African-Americans, Cherokees, women and girls, gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgendered people, prisoners, and others from the outskirts or the margins of Appalachia. The 2002 conference in Unicoi will include art, books, dancing, food, music, panels, papers, photographs, plays, poetry, posters, roundtables, stories, and videos.

Suzanne Pharr, Director of Highlander Research and Education Center, will give the keynote address on the topic of “Democracy Under Construction.” A plenary will focus on “Latinos in a Global Appalachia: Prospects for Social Justice Collaborations.” Contemporary poets will honor the memory of north Georgia native Don West: preacher, poet, organizer, activist, co-founder of Highlander Folk School and founder of Pipestem Folklife Center in West Virginia.

The Appalachian Studies Association Conference is held annually on a rotating basis at sites in Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia, and has several purposes: to share work in progress, to foster cooperation between disciplines, and to stimulate new work of significance. It also provides a forum for dialogue and action by a coalition of academic, grassroots community, and activists in the region.

Silent Auction Donations

This year marks the fifth annual Silent Auction, which supports the ASA Scholarship Fund. Since this is the twenty-fifth year of the Appalachian Studies Association, consider contributing those old silver wedding presents, silver jewelry you don't wear anymore, that odd silver spoon or fork. Traditional items are always welcome: crafts, quilts, memorabilia, special foods, tickets to events, music, art, a weekend get-away, a rafting trip, a fine meal, your autographed book, videotapes, antiques, oddities, office treasures, performances, guest lectures, etc. Contributions should be sent to: Howard Dorgan, 747 Stadium Drive, Boone, NC 28607, (or call 828-264-4361 to ask Howard about specifics) or bring items to the auction at the conference.

Pre-Conference Activity:
Visit the John C. Campbell
Folk School

The John C. Campbell Folk School was co-founded by Olive Dame Campbell, Marguerite Butler, and the people of Brasstown, North Carolina, in 1925. Located on a 374-acre campus, the Folk School has some twenty-five buildings dating from the 1920s, and the entire campus is listed on the National Registry as a Historic Site. A Craft Shop features the work of local/regional artisans, a History Center documents the community and campus life, and myriad classes teach folk arts, crafts, music, and dance. Persons who wish to view the campus may enter classrooms and observe. It is about a 30 to 45 minute drive from Unicoi to the Folk School and visitors are welcome. While in this region of Appalachia we encourage you to view a school which has enriched and enlivened mountain life in western North Carolina since 1925. The John C. Campbell Folk School is located in a scenic mountain valley seven miles east of Murphy, North Carolina. For complete directions visit their website: www.folkschool.com.
