

Journal of Appalachian Studies Style Sheet/Instructions to Authors

MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSIONS

The journal considers serious multi-disciplinary scholarship from scholars, teachers, activists, and others whose work focuses on the Appalachian region. Submissions must be written in a style that can be understood by intelligent non-specialists.

Submit an electronic Word file along with two copies of your manuscript on standard 8-1/2" x 11" (letter size) paper, one-sided and double-spaced, in Times New Roman, 12 point font. Please follow the word count limits below:

- Articles: should be between 5,000 - 8,000 words (approximately 32 pages) including notes, citations, and references.
- Conference Papers: a maximum of 5,000 words (approximately 20 pages) including notes, citations, and references.
- Teaching Notes: a maximum of 5,000 words (approximately 20 pages) including notes, citations, and references.

Submitted manuscripts need not follow the Journal's format for references, notes, etc.; however, once accepted for publication, manuscripts must be typed according to the Journal's specifications.

- JAS uses a blind review system, so do not include your name or affiliation on the manuscript. Instead, include this information on a separate cover page.
- Please include a brief bio of each author (no more than 20 words per person) on the cover page. Sample bio: Linda Spatig is a professor of educational leadership at Marshall University and associate editor of the Journal of Appalachian Studies.
- On a separate page, please include an abstract of up to 200 words.

In a cover letter, authors should verify that the manuscript has not been published previously and is not being submitted for publication elsewhere. Authors who would like immediate confirmation that their manuscripts have been received should include their email addresses. Send manuscripts and inquiries regarding editorial matters to: Mary K. Thomas, Executive Director, JAS, Marshall University, One John Marshall Drive, Huntington, WV 25755; mthomas@marshall.edu; 304-696-2904.

FINAL REVISIONS

Once accepted for publication, articles must be adapted to the Journal's style. Manuscripts containing final revisions should be submitted electronically, as a Word document, along with two hard copies, typed double-spaced in Times New Roman, 12 point font.

FORMAT AND STYLE, SPELLING, AND WORD USAGE

When not specified in the style guide, follow the Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition. Follow the Merriam Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, 11th edition.

Use Times New Roman, 12 point font for your manuscript. Avoid boldface.

Use italics instead of underlining, both in text and references. This includes the titles of books and journals.

Use quotation marks for any quotes taken from reference material not paraphrased. Limit stylized use of quotation marks in text for words or phrases used differently than they are typically understood.

Use block quotations only for quoted material of more than five lines.

CAPITALIZATION

Generally, only proper nouns—the names of people and places—are capitalized.

Pike County (upper case), the county (lower case)

General Lee, the general, President Kennedy, John F. Kennedy, president of the United States

The three subregions of Appalachia are considered to be proper nouns, and so are capitalized: Northern Appalachia, Central Appalachia, Southern Appalachia; also Northern, Central, and Southern Appalachians (referring to the people of the region).

However, regions within states are not capitalized: eastern Tennessee, southern West Virginia, western North Carolina.

Capitalize only the word Appalachian in Appalachian studies.

For academic concerns, capitalize official course names and subjects that are part of the name of a department. (e.g., He is chair of the Department of Philosophy. She is studying modern history.)

NUMBERS

Spell out whole numbers from one to ninety-nine. Also spell out whole numbers from one to ninety-nine followed by hundred, thousand, million, etc. Express all other numbers as numerals. Exceptions to this rule are in the use of percentages (see below) or when referring to tables and figures.

- sixty-eight; 100; 347; forty-one thousand; 233,000; four hundred thousand; twenty-three million; 101 million.
- Percentages are always expressed as numerals followed by the word “percent”: 45 percent, 3 percent (not 45% or 3%).
- Spell out any number that is the first word in a sentence.

ELLIPSES

The Journal of Appalachian Studies uses the “three-or-four-dot-method” for formatting ellipses. With this style, use three dots to indicate an omission of part of a single sentence, and four to signal the omission of one or more sentences. With three dots, a space is used both before and after the first dot, but when using four dots, the first dot is a true period with no space preceding it. Both the sentence before and the sentence after the use of four dots should be grammatically complete, even if only part of either sentence is quoted. If the omission of one or more sentences occurs at the end of the quoted material, the quote should be ended with a single period unless it is significant to point out that unquoted material follows.

ENDNOTES

JAS uses endnotes rather than footnotes. Endnotes should be used only to supplement the discussion, not to list references or other bibliographical details. To keep endnotes to a minimum, endnote material should be incorporated into the body of the text wherever possible. The note section must not overbalance the text.

REFERENCES

Note that any sources cited in the manuscript must be listed in the references at the end of the paper.

When citing in text, please use the following guidelines: italicize all book and journal titles, use quotation marks around articles, parts of a book, or short poems (e.g., Jim Wayne Miller’s “Brier Sermon”), and italicize long poems (e.g., Homer’s Iliad). Quotation marks are not needed in the references; however still italicize book titles, journal titles, and long poems.

Please note that all reference entries must be revised to conform with the Journal style guide. The Journal uses a variation of the author-date form (see Chicago Manual 15th edition, chapter 17). The basic format for references follows:

Last Name, First Name. date. Article title, or section of book, if applicable. Book title. City of Publication: Publisher. (OR) Last Name, First Name. date. Journal Title Vol. No. (Issue

Whenever possible, all authors’ full names must be given in the corresponding reference entries. Initials may be used if authors’ first names are unknown.

In-text references must include the author's last name and the date of the publication being referenced, with no punctuation between them. If the author is quoted verbatim, then the page number should follow the year of publication with a comma separating the year and page number.

Note that the Journal of Appalachian Studies' style for references is to use "down" or "sentence style" in the capitalization of book and article titles. In sentence style, only the first word in the title should be capitalized with the exception of the first word following a colon (down style). For titles of journals, however, capitalize the whole title in the more common headline style.

BOOK WITH ONE AUTHOR

...just as an example (Doniger 1999)

Doniger, Wendy. 1999. Splitting the difference. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

For reference entries listing multiple books by the same author, or by the same group of authors (all authors in the listing must be the same), use the author's full name in the first entry, followed by three consecutive underscore marks (_) in place of the authors name in subsequent entries. Multiple-author entries are ordered chronologically.

Danford, H. Edmund. 1912. Soakum: A story. Bellows Falls, Vermont: P. H. Gobie Press.

_____. 1926. The West Virginian. New York: Harold Vinal.

_____. 1928. Trail of the grey dragon. New York: Harold Vinal.

_____. 1931. Ohio Valley pioneers. Chicago: Rand, McNally & Co.

BOOKS WITH TWO OR THREE AUTHORS

(Cowlshaw and Dunbar 2000)

Cowlshaw, Guy and Robin Dunbar. 2000. Primate conservation biology. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

Note that second and all subsequent authors are listed with their first name first, and surname last in the reference entry.

BOOKS WITH FOUR OR MORE AUTHORS

Parenthetical citations for all references with up to three authors list the last names of all authors in the reference entry: for four or more authors, name the primary author followed by et al. and the year of publication.

(Laumann et al. 1994)

Laumann, Edward O., John H. Gagnon, Robert T. Michael, and Stuart Michaels. 1994. The social organization of sexuality: Sexual practices in the United States. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

EDITOR, TRANSLATOR, OR COMPILER

Alternative titles are abbreviated and noted after the name(s) in the reference entry.

(Lattimore 1951)

Lattimore, Richmond, trans. 1951. The Iliad of Homer. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

If citing a document with both an author and an editor, translator or compiler, list the latter after the title of work.

Bonnefoy, Yves. 1995. New and selected poems. Ed. John Naughton and Anthony Rudolf.

Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

REPRINT EDITIONS AND MODERN EDITIONS

If citing a reprint or modern edition of a book for which both publication dates are necessary, give both dates in the in-text citation and the references. The original publication date is given in the brackets, with the most recent publication date immediately following it.

(Emerson [1836] 1985.)

Emerson, Ralph Waldo. [1836] 1985. Nature. A facsimile of the first ed. With an introd. By Jaroslav Pelikan. Boston: Beacon.

SUBSEQUENT EDITIONS

If citing an updated edition of a book, list the edition number after the title: if the volume number is included, it follows the edition number. (e.g. ...2nd ed. 2 vols...)

Smart, Ninian. 1976. The religious experience of mankind. 2nd ed. New York: Scriber and Sons.

CHAPTER OR OTHER PART OF A BOOK

(Twaddell 1957, 85-87)

Twaddell, W. Freeman. 1957. A note on Old High German umlaut. In Readings in linguistics I:

The development of descriptive linguistics in America, 1925—1956. 4th ed. Ed Martin

Joos. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

CHAPTER OF AN EDITED VOLUME ORIGINALLY PUBLISHED ELSEWHERE

(common for primary sources)

(Cicero 1986, 33)

Cicero, Quintus Tullius. 1986. Handbook on canvassing for the consulship. In Rome: Late republic and principate, edited by Walter Emil Kaegi Jr. and Peter White. Vol. 2 of University of Chicago readings in western civilization. Edited by John Boyer and Julius Kirshner. Chicago: University of Chicago Press. Originally published in Evelyn S. Shuckburgh, trans., The letters of Cicero, vol. 1 (London: George Bell & Sons, 1908).

PREFACE, FOREWORD, INTRODUCTION, AND SIMILAR PARTS OF A BOOK

(Rieger 1974)

Rieger, James. 1974. Introduction to Frankenstein, or the modern Prometheus, by Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley. Chicago: University of Chicago Press.

BOOK PUBLISHED IN BOTH PRINTED AND ELECTRONIC FORMS

When citing multiple formats of a document, be sure that it is clear which form was consulted; however, there is no need to indicate “paper” in a citation to a traditional bound book)

(Kurland and Lerner 1987)

Kurland, Philip B., and Ralph Lerner, eds. 1987. The founders’ constitution. Chicago: University of Chicago Press. Also available online at <http://press-pubs.uchicago.edu/founders/> and as a CD-ROM.

JOURNAL ARTICLE

(Smith 1998, 639-640)

Smith, John Maynard. 1998. The origin of altruism. Nature 393: 639-40.

ARTICLE IN AN ELECTRONIC JOURNAL

Online articles may be subject to changing addresses and URLs, as the online publisher’s content is updated and changed. Though not generally required by Chicago, please try to include an access date whenever possible for the URL being referenced. If included, add it parenthetically at the end of the citation, as in the example below.

(Hlatky et al. 2002)

Hlatky, Mark A., Derek Boothroyd, Eric Vittinghoff, Penny Sharp, and Mary A. Whooley. 2002. Quality-of-life and depressive symptoms in postmenopausal women after receiving hormone therapy: Results from the Heart and Estrogen/Progestin Replacement Study (HERS) trial. Journal of the American Medical Association 287, no. 5 (February 6), <http://jama.ama-assn.org/issues/v287n5/rfull/joc10108.html#aainfo> (accessed January 7, 2002).

POPULAR MAGAZINE ARTICLE

(Martin 2002)

Martin, Steve. 2002. Sports-interview shocker. New Yorker, May 6, 84.

NEWSPAPER ARTICLE

Preferred Chicago style is for all newspaper citations to be made in running text, rather than parenthetical notes:

As William Niederkorn noted in a New York Times article on June 20, 2002, ...

Niederkorn, William S. 2002. A scholar recants on his "Shakespeare" discovery. New York Times, June 20, Midwest edition.

Note that an initial The is omitted from newspaper names, while the name of the city of publication is included, italicized, along with the title, regardless of whether it appears on the masthead.
